British Microcars 1947-2002 1964

nobody built sports cars like british manufacturers in the 1950s and 1960s there was something very special about the combination of low slung open two seater bodywork with a spartan interior a slick sporting gearchange and a rorty exhaust note this was wind in the hair motoring and it was affordable by the average young man at least until he got married and had a family the names of mg and triumph stood proudly out from the rest but there were many others as well austin healeys and jaguars were grander and faster but they still embodied that almost indefinable fun factor then there were the bit part players who did their best to secure a place in the affections of the sports car buying public british sports cars were hugely popular overseas especially in the usa and tellingly when japanese manufacturer mazda wanted to make a sports car in 1989 it sought inspiration from these very classics of the 1950s and 1960s today the mazda mx 5 is the world's best selling sports car
