Commentaries on the History and Cure of Diseases 1816

our current theory of cure isn t working when did it stop today we can t cure most diseases when cured few can be proven cured even the common cold the flu and measles i ve had them all cured over 99 percent of cases are cured while medical theory there is no cure for the same is true for many other diseases we need a theory of cure that encompasses every curable medical condition or disease this book is the first step on that path cure is defined by cause every curable medical condition has a present cause that when addressed results in a cure of course many diseases are compound and complex having multiple causes often causing other diseases themselves there is plenty of complexity to study cure we simplify first and then build our understanding from a solid foundation there are exactly two basic types of illness causes resulting in exactly two types of cures an element of illness has a single cause the cause of an illness might be found in diet body mind spirit community or environment of the afflicted the illness element is cured when the cause has been successfully addressed once an illness is cured that cure is permanent no cure is permanent if the cause occurs again a new illness might occur this logic applies to every cure cures are forward movements in life we can only go forward in life not backwards no cure is perfect perfect cures are a myth real cures are real both healing and curing function by addressing the basic causes of illness healthy prevention and intentional actions that successfully address the causes of illness

~~an illness no healing cure is perfect even when the results are better~~ than before curing consists of intentional personal community and medical actions that address the cause of an illness caring is attention by self and community to address the signs and symptoms of disease to aid and facilitate healthy tolerance of the signs and symptoms of disease and to aid and facilitate cures excerpt from fasting for the cure of disease every step that is taken in developing the practice of treatment of disease by natural methods is met with opposition which in many instances amounts to persecution the research covered by this work and especially that which involved post mortem examination was hampered by medical intervention and was accomplished only through sheer determination and the assistance of a few broad minds in authority the author believes that these autopsies are unique in the history of the healing art no other investigator in her ken has had opportunity to connect the origin of disease with the immediate cause of death its organic consequence the latter in all cases have the additional advantage and scientific value of being exhibited free from the effects of drugs about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

A Manual of "The Cure of Nature," as applied to the relief of Disease in general 1845 excerpt from a treatise on health its aids and hindrances containing an exposition of the causes and cure of disease and the laws of life it is now nearly eleven years since the author published the first edition of his six lectures on the causes and cure of consumption etc and in that time he has had very ample opportunity of practically testing the correctness of the views he there announced the position taken in that work that pulmonary consumption is curable by medical treatment with the proof presented that the author had succeeded in curing it attracted very general attention and brought to his office in new york for consultation and treatment invalids from all portions of this country and even from europe and other parts of the world his practice having had this wide range and embracing as it has in its scope over seventy thousand patients of all classes and ages and of both sexes has enabled him to determine with great accuracy how much is due to climate to habits of life to hereditary peculiarities and to the various influences acting upon us both in producing and preventing or arresting this disease he has also been enabled to ascertain by personal observation how much and what efficacy there is in the various remedies and modes of practice whether regular or irregular which have at one time and another challenged public attention in the treatment of consumption the result has been not only completely to demonstrate as he believes the truth of the doctrines heretofore announced by him but to impress still more forcibly on his mind their great practical importance about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works excerpt from a sketch of the theory and cure of phthisis tuberculous consumption the established pathology and therapeutics are therefore erroneous and unscientific they are based entirely on tradition and belief and stand in direct contradiction with the results of medical science pneumonia is f i a disease with such and such symptoms and has such and such remedies as curatives medical science shows us that an inflammation of the lungs can base its cause in the most different occurrences and must have therefore a different treatment in each case according to the circumstances sometimes we have a fibri nous exudation then again an albuminous one then one with blood cells then one with blood water and salts only the different formula of the blood the different circumstances condition always a different disease and consequently must condition a different treatment and we can therefore not establish pneumonia as such or such disease with such and such treatment but we have to make a scientific diagnosis in each and every case again after that we can adopt means for treatment what is disease what are its causes these are the questions which must be answered before a man can call himself a scientific physician do physicians know these have they learned it in their medi cal lectures very few indeed would be able to answer these questions yet in the answer of these lies the fate of medical science and it is therefore the object of all scientific medical men to establish the understanding of these questions such is also my object and the little work spoken of contains the explanation of disease its causes the treatment of such causes and their consequences in general there is no use in mending and filing on the old rotten pathology and therapeutics for the whole build ing is foul and the more pieces set in the more confused it becomes about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original and 2012-04-27 blemish or missing page 11/17 will be replicated in our edition english and swedish edition
