The Views and Opinions of ... John Jacob, Collected and Ed. by L. Pelly 2016-05-19 excerpt from the life and ventures of the original john jacob astor with illustrations john jacob astor was pre eminently the opener of new paths a breaker of trails from his first tramp alone through the black forest of baden at sixteen his life never lost this typical touch in america both shores of the hudson and the wilderness to the northwest knew his trail the trees of the forests west of the mississippi were blazed by his hunters and trappers and his partners and agents planted through this vast region the flag of the american fur company the atlantic and pacific oceans were invisibly lined by the path of his vessels his were the first american ships to habitually circle the globe trading around the earth with his far sighted vision withdrawn from distant scenes and centered on manhattan island he led the way toward the up building of the largest and most important city in the new world emboldened by walter barrett the racy writer of old merchants of new york who assures his readers that no man would enjoy the publication of the true facts concerning his life more than mr astor himself were he alive i have not hesitated to give the initial steps in this great mans career feeling that humble and arduous as they were they held the keynote to his later successes
